

THE FURNITURE STORE OF QUALITY

Last Call For Refrigerators

With every style of our wonderful line still here for your inspection, we come to this, the second week of June. Don't be without one longer. You will lose money every day, not to speak of the annoyance.

Your credit is good here, so why delay.

If we advertise it, we have it

The Home Furnishing Co.

Main Street Complete Home Furnishers Clarksburg, W. Va.

Social and Personal

Items for this department are welcomed. They may be sent or telephoned to the Telegram's editorial department. Telephone: Bell 390. Home 157-Y.

Birthday Party.

A number of young folks of Lumberton and vicinity spent a very pleasant evening at the home of the Rev. Mr. Sleeth Monday. The event was the sixteenth birthday of Mr. Sleeth's daughter, Miss Willard.

Miss Sleeth received many useful and beautiful presents. The evening passed with games and music and after dainty refreshments had been served, the guests, wishing Miss Willard many happy returns of the day and saying they had had a most delightful evening went home.

Those present were Misses Zona Brooke, Columbia Robey, Gertrude Georgia and Willie Robinson, Mary Powell, Jennie Riblet, Zona Wine-miller, Mayme and Ora Weekley, Mable and Burtis Brown, Bertha Bog-ness, Fay Swiger and Helen Mitton, Wayman, Paul and Charles Robinson, Odette Swiger, Hugh Brown, Emery Stiers, Dewey Van Horn, Paul Hess, Moss Knight, Hugh Wine-miller, Harry McCracken and Johnnie Shook.

Bedell-Greer.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Reeder on South Seventh street, Colonial Heights, at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning by the Rev. W. C. Taylor, pastor of the First Baptist church, the contracting parties being Mr. James K. Bedell, of Woodbine, Ga., and Miss Martha Dieckman, of Wheeling. They will reside at Woodbine, Ga., their future home, after June 12.

(Continued on page 5.)

GEORGE PERKINS

(Continued from page 1.)

anybody. We are for somebody, and that somebody is Theodore Roosevelt. I urge you to bear that in mind in all your conversations. The process of tearing down men in this country should stop. It is time to be for somebody, for something and to build something. We haven't got it in for anybody or anything. We are out for a matchless man and an incomparable cause. You know that no one else has such a man and that is the cause. Therefore we have no second choice.

"Go to it."

Convinced that Roosevelt cannot be nominated by the Republican convention, the defensive combination of favorite son candidates, which is said to control about 550 votes, Tuesday exerted its full influence to eliminate Hughes if they can. In this effort they received the enthusiastic and united support of all elements of the Progressive party leaders.

This is cautious day for state delegations and the favorite sons managers are busy tying up their men with iron clad pledges to stick to the combination until the break comes in accordance with some plan to be decided upon later.

While the old organization leaders are certain they have control of the convention they admit that the situation is pregnant with uncertainties at present. They hope that with Roosevelt's aid they may be able to agree on a candidate acceptable to a majority of the Progressives and prevent a third ticket being put in the field.

The day's developments disclosed a spectacular drive of the field against Hughes, but despite this his friends expressed confidence that he would be named in the early hours of balloting.

The plan of the organization is to have the nominating speeches Friday, take two ballots and adjourn in the hope of effecting a compromise on someone acceptable to the Roosevelt forces.

SANDERSON NO BETTER.

E. L. Sanderson, of Elkins, state sales manager of the DeLoe Lighting System, who was seriously injured Sunday morning when he drove his automobile over an embankment near Good Hope, and who is a patient at St. Mary's hospital, was no better Tuesday. His condition is still critical.

A Virginian has invented a hand-truck that enables one man to pick up and move objects weighing 1,000 pounds or more.

What He Found

"Having drunk an excellent cup of coffee" said a certain physician, "I found that I hadn't drunk coffee, but Postum!"

Numbers of people, like this doctor, have been pleasantly surprised at the pleasant aroma and snappy, Java-like taste of Postum.

And yet, Postum doesn't contain a particle of coffee—and better still, not a particle of the drug, caffeine, nor any other harmful substance.

Postum is made from wheat, roasted with a bit of wholesome molasses—a pure food-drink that is both healthful and delicious. A great many sufferers from headaches, "coffee heart," nervousness, sleeplessness and other ills brought on by the use of coffee with its nerve-destroying drug, caffeine, have found happy relief by quitting coffee and using

POSTUM

"There's a Reason"

Postum comes in two forms: Postum Cereal—the original form—must be boiled; Instant Postum—soluble—is made in the cup with hot water, instantly. The cost per cup is about the same, and both kinds are equally delicious when made right.

For Sale By Grocers

BELL-ANS

Absolutely Removes Indigestion. One package proves it. 25c at all druggists.

NEWS JOTTINGS OF SALEM CITY

Telegram Correspondent Records Doings of the People There.

SALEM, June 6.—The annual concert in connection with the commencement week of the music department of the college occurred last night. The following program was rendered to large audience:

PART I.

To Heaven's Resound... Beethoven
Girls' Glee Club.
To the Spring... Grieg
Miss Gladys Randolph.
Cavalier Song... Bullard
Mr. Waldo Van Horn
Nocturne... Chopin
Miss Virginia Jones.
(a) Orpheus With His Lute... Sullivan
(b) Springtide... Reinhold-Becker
"Miss Dede Bailey."
Prelude... Rachmaninoff
"Miss Okareta Ford."
Trio, Barcarolle... Offenbach
Mr. Harris, Mr. Ford, Miss Harkness.
Polish Dance... Scharwenka
Miss Margaret Trainer.
Sing Me the Song of a Lad that is Gone... Burnham
Mr. Ralph Ford.

PART II.

Duet... Diabelli
Miss Gladys Clark, Miss Harkness.
(a) My Mother Bids Me Bid My Hair... Haydn
(b) Wings of Song... Mendelssohn
(c) Birthday Song... Woodman
"Miss Susie Seager."
Serenade... Moszkowski.
Mr. George Price.
Sunshine Song... Grieg
Miss Harkness.
Waltz... Weber
Mr. George Ford.
Duet, I Knock a Bank Where the Wild Thyme Grows... Horne
"Miss Seager, Miss Bailey."
Romio Capriccio... Mendelssohn
Miss Alberta Davis.
Carmena... Wilson
Girls' Glee Club.
Rhapsodie Hongroise No. 10... Liszt
Miss Hattie Van Horn.
"Graduates to the music department—piano."
"Graduate from the music department—voice."

Miss Ora Sortett, a young Belgian woman, who was a patient in a Baltimore hospital, died at that place Sunday night. Her body will be brought here for interment and the funeral will be held most likely on Wednesday.

Mrs. T. Francis Kemper, who has been in New York, where her daughter, Miss Ruth, has been taking advanced music studies, arrived here Saturday and will remain here for some time.

The closing political meeting of the primary campaign was held by the Democrats at the bank corner last night. Attorney E. F. Garrett and candidate Ernest Randolph were the principal speakers. The local band furnished the music.

UNDERGOES OPERATION.

Gene R. Curtis, of Jane Lew, was operated upon in the St. Mary's hospital Tuesday morning for appendicitis. He rallied nicely from the anaesthetic and was resting as easy as could be expected Tuesday afternoon.

Columbus lectured about America at Salamanca, a sort of European Harvard, in 1492, when the city contained 10,000 students.

The earth's atmosphere is supposed to vary in depth from 125 to 250 miles.

LORD KITCHENER

(Continued from page 1.)

The British newspapers gave him active support prior to May, 1915. During the winter months the war secretary had announced the "big drive" would begin about the first of May. The battle of Neuve Chapelle occurred in May, and England believed this was the beginning of the big drive. Shortly afterward, reports reached England that the drive had failed owing to a shortage of munitions, especially high-explosive shells. A section of the London press then declared that Kitchener had made a serious mistake in providing large quantities of shrapnel and insufficient high-explosives. Newspaper attacks went so far as to suggest his being displaced as war secretary, but the majority of the papers defended him. It was agreed that the raising of the big army and supplying munitions at the same time was too great a task for one man. The discussion developed the formation of a coalition cabinet and the creation of the new portfolio of minister of munitions, of which David Lloyd George took charge, while Kitchener remained as war minister.

Without his crowning achievements as the great organizer of the British campaign in the European war, Kitchener had already won wide and lasting fame by his many campaigns in Egypt, South Africa and in India.

He was born June 24, 1850, in Kerry, Ireland, a fact that gave rise to a general belief that he was of Irish blood, but his parents were of French and English descent. His father was a soldier, but of no very high rank. He had managed to climb to the lieutenant-colonel of a dragoon regiment, when he retired to the estate in Ireland where Horatio Kitchener, the to-be-distinguished son, was born. Young Kitchener received his fundamental military education at Woolwich, where he displayed only ordinary brilliancy, with the exception of his liking for mathematics. On graduating he received a commission in the Royal Engineers, but when not yet 21 years of age, he attached himself to a French army in the Franco-Prussian war. He had been in the service only a short time when he contracted pneumonia during a balloon flight, and had such a prolonged and serious illness that he had to give up further service for France. Kitchener's experience in European warfare—prior to his direction of the great war of 1914—therefore, had been limited only to a few balloon flights in France.

In 1874 when a British expedition was sent out to survey Western Palestine, Kitchener was one of the eager volunteers accepted for this service. For months he traveled over the hills and valleys of this peaceable Bible land with his theodolite and surveying tape, and with this life in the open he grew to be a tall, gaunt subaltern with a hard face well burned. His contribution to the topographical knowledge to the Holy Land completed, young Kitchener was sent to Cyprus, which Great Britain had just acquired, to organize a system of courts, a work in which he displayed administrative ability and tact. It was while there, in 1882, that he took his first step on the path that was to lead him eventually to Khartoum. Trouble was already brewing in the Sudan. Hearing that the Egyptian army was being organized by Sir Evelyn Wood, young Kitchener saw his opportunity with unerring instinct and lost no time in offering his services. The military authorities, recognizing at once his insight into the national character, put him in the intelligence department, and from the very outset of his Egyptian career negotiations of the utmost importance were entrusted to him and carried out with invariable success. As an intelligence officer, Kitchener accompanied Sir Herbert Stewart's desert column on that heroic but disastrous enterprise known as the Gordon Relief Expedition—the belief of General Gordon from Khartoum where he had been entangled during the evacuation of the Sudan. Kitchener deeply took to heart the lessons of the failure, with its failure of transport and intelligence departments, and avoided these troubles in the expedition which he himself led some years later. In the meantime Kitchener was employed in innumerable fights and raids against the dervishes or Mahdists of Southern Egypt. In 1886 he became governor of the Red sea territories and set in motion a series of raids on the notorious Osman Digna, the dervish leader. In one of these raids Kitchener's men were flanked and put to flight during which he received a bullet which broke his jaw.

By this time much was heard in England of Kitchener's work in Egypt and when he returned there for a short rest he was received with honor and nominated aide-de-campe of Queen Victoria. With his health recruited, he went back to Egypt, on the resignation of Sir Francis Grenfell, he was appointed Sirdar (commander) of the Egyptian army. His really great career dates from that time.

As an instance of the self-confidence with which Kitchener undertook his tasks in Egypt is recalled how he dealt with the war office a few generals before him ever dared. On one occasion he sent home for a special kind of gun. The war office suggested another kind. The Sirdar repeated his orders. Next he was informed that the war office guns had been forwarded, whereupon he dispatched a politely insolent message home saying that he was very grateful, but the war office could keep its guns. His message read: "I can throw stones at the dervishes myself." As a consequence, the guns he asked for were forwarded without delay.

The Kitchener campaign that ended with the recapture of Khartoum was considered by military experts as perfectly organized and faultlessly conducted. The Egyptian army that Kitchener had worked up to such remarkable efficiency was, when he first took charge of it, a band of unpaid, unfed and undisciplined fellows. It was said to be an army "without stomach, without backbone," but Kitchener worked under these helpless reeds of broken natives and made of them some of the finest of black battalions.

The fight at Omdurman, September 2, 1898, just across the Nile from Khartoum, was the greatest battle of Kitchener's time in Egypt. Osman Digna faced him with 50,000 Mahdists, while he had but 20,000 men. When the battle was over, 11,000 of the Mahdists had been killed outright, 16,000 wounded, and 4,000 taken prisoner, while the English and Egyptian loss altogether was under 600 men.

With the capture of Khartoum, the capital of the Sudan, which meant the re-establishment of British possession of these upper reaches of the Nile, Kitchener became the object of hero-worship in England. His campaign had been, and is to this day, much criticized, however, because of its ruthlessness. It was charged Kitchener trampled on his foes in an almost barbarous manner. On his return to England, however, he was generous enough to ask his countrymen to found a college at Khartoum wherein the sons of the dervish chiefs he had fought and overwhelmed might be educated in the knowledge of the West, a request that met with such response among the British people that the fund required was far over subscribed.

For his triumphs in the Sudan he was raised to the peerage as Baron Kitchener of Khartoum, and received the thanks of Parliament and a grant of $150,000. Shortly afterward he was promoted to lieutenant-general and then chief of staff to Lord Roberts in the South African war, and on Lord Roberts's return to England in November, 1900, succeeded him as commander-in-chief of that field. By constructing a 3,500 mile chain of block houses he stopped the Boer raids and virtually ended the war in South Africa. This added to his popularity and prestige at home, and he was awarded by the title of Viscount promotion to the rank of general for distinguished services, the thanks of the Parliament and a grant of $250,000.

Immediately after the peace General Kitchener went to India as commander-in-chief of the British forces, and in this position which he held for seven years, he carried out not only many far-reaching administrative reforms but a complete reorganization and strategic redistribution of the British and native forces. On leaving India in 1909 he was promoted field marshal and appointed commander-in-chief and high commissioner in the Mediterranean, and later on took a tour of inspection of the forces of the entire empire, drawing up a scheme of defense of the overseas dominions.

He then returned to Egypt, the scene of his first triumph, in the capacity of British agent and consul general in Cairo—virtually a governor general—of Egypt—and led in the economical development of the country, building new roads and irrigation projects on a large scale.

During all the years the British people had looked on Kitchener's silent but effective work, they had never been able to fathom his personality. A cockney non-commissioned officer, who had seen much service under him, summed up the general opinion when he said of Kitchener: "He's no talker. Not 'im. He's all steel and blizz."

His face was that of a man who neither asked for sympathy nor wanted it.

He had steady, blue-gray passionless eyes, and a heavy moustache covered a mouth that shut close and firm like a wolf trap. He believed with all his might in the gospel of work. He had an inimitable self-confidence. For bungling and faint-heartedness he was incapable of feeling sympathy or showing mercy; an officer who failed him once got no second chance. He had a grim, laconic humor. "What is your taste in nairpins?" for instance, is said to have been the query with which he annihilated a dandified officer. He was indifferent to popularity, particularly among women, and though feted all over the world in social circles, he never married. In 1910 he paid a brief visit to the United States during a trip around the world. At that time

How You May Change Your Face Completely

Any woman not satisfied with her complexion can easily remove it and have a new one. The thin veil of stinging dead cuticle is an encumbrance and should be removed to give the fresh, vigorous, young skin underneath a chance to show itself and to breathe. There's a simple, old-fashioned remedy which will always do the work. Get an ounce of pure rosewater from your druggist and apply it at night like cold cream, washing it off in the morning. The wax will gently absorb all the lifeless skin and leave a healthy and beautiful complexion, as fresh as a child's. Naturally it takes with it all such facial blemishes as freckles, moth patches, sallowness, liver spots, pimples. It is pleasant to use, and economical. The face so treated soon looks years younger.

To keep the skin free from wrinkles there's nothing quite so good as the old reliable sassafras lotion. It is only necessary to dissolve an ounce of powdered sassafras in a half pint of witch hazel and bathe the face in this as required.

Special This Week

BAKERS CORN

10c

3 for 25c

TOMATOES

Large can 10c

3 cans 25c

SAUERKRAUT

Large can 10c

3 cans 25c

SALMON

10c

3 cans 25c

See Window Display

Chicago Dairy
The Better Butter Store

CAPITAL $400,000.00

BANKING FOR WOMEN

A special feature of the service of this bank is the careful and courteous attention devoted to the accounts of our women customers.

We welcome small as well as large accounts in both our Savings and our Checking Departments, and we do everything possible to make banking a pleasure for our patrons.

Our officers will be pleased to have you consult them regarding your requirements.

Clarksburg Trust Company
Corner of Pike and Third Streets
CLARKSBURG, W. VA.

OUR SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE

MR. J. A. COFFELT

will have on display at the

Waldo, Wednesday, June 7

Waists, Wash Skirts, Underwear, Bathing

Suits, Caps and Shoes, Hosiery and Sport Shoes.

We Invite Your Inspection

ESTABLISHED 1871

KAUFMANN'S
"THE BIG STORE"

5th AVE. SMITHFIELD & DIAMOND STS.

Pittsburg.

It came out in the New York papers that the great Kitchener was a "woman hater." He took occasion to deny this and said the only reason he never married was because he believed a man could not be a good soldier and a good husband at the same time.

ELKS TO MEET.

A regular meeting of the local lodge of Elks will be held at 8 o'clock to-night. Unless otherwise decided upon, there will be no other meeting this month.

STAR BLOOMER GIRLS

VS.

NORWOOD

At Norwood Park

SUNDAY, JUNE 11

Game Called at 3:00 o'clock

GET YOUR SUIT CASES, TRAVELING BAGS AND TRUNKS AT LOWNDES

STRAWBERRIES

Every Day

Right from the farm. They're Jumbos.

2 FOR 25c

Liston's
220 W. Pike St.

CLASS AND DANCE.
Every Tuesday
In the Ball room, Waldo Hotel.
Class 8-9. Dance 9-11.
Private instruction given at any time (by appointment).
Phone or call J. A. Healy, Waldo hotel.

FARM

A real West Virginia blue grass farm of 150 acres of the finest soil in Harrison county. Located five miles out near tarvia road and 2 1/2 miles from car line. The price is less than $100 an acre and if you want the best, see this one.

Glenn B. Waters
Real Estate Broker
306 Prunty Bldg.

TALKING FOR T. R.

George W. Perkins sketched in Chicago while arguing fervently for the nomination of Roosevelt.

COULD YOU SEE

How few dentists can make a good set of teeth you would take no chances and come to us. Hill Brothers' name denotes mastery in this line.

SET OF TEETH
Guaranteed $7.50
CROWN OR
BRIDGEWORK $5.00
Fillings 50c up
All work guaranteed. We guarantee painless extracting and other work with least discomfort.
Pyorrhea or Diseased Gums successfully treated.

HILL BROS.
DENTISTS

K. of P. Bldg., Opp. Sheriff's Residence, Third Street.

Auto Livery Co.

819

Taxis & Touring Cars